Think Globally Collage Contest Overview

To celebrate International Education Week 2024, International Education Services invites Kindergarten to Grade 12 students from across Alberta and Alberta's international accredited schools to participate in the Think Globally Collage Contest.

What is international education?

International education is a broad term for initiatives that promote an understanding of the differences and connections among the world's people and places. International education can look like many different things, such as:

- language and culture learning;
- international student programs;
- international school partnerships; and
- student and teacher exchange programs.

It can also look like:

- organizing an international food festival with your class;
- attending cultural events in your school or community;
- learning from classmates that have lived abroad;
- collaborating on a class project with a partner school abroad; and
- participating in the Think Globally Collage Contest!

What is this contest about?

This contest encourages students to further their understanding of the differences and connections among the world's people and places by creating a collage that answers the following question:

In my school, how do I interact with the world?

To answer this question, students need to reflect on their own school experience and provide examples of:

- learning from languages and cultures
  - students should consider texts and visuals that represent how they communicate with people in different languages, how they recognize and appreciate difference, or how they examine their own cultural identity and assumptions.
- sharing ideas, perspectives, and values
  - students should consider texts and visuals that represent how they engage with cultural guest speakers, how they apply multiple perspectives to discussions about global issues, or how they participate in activities or clubs that foster diversity and inclusion.
- strengthening international and intercultural relationships
  - students should consider texts and visuals that represent how they build friendships with the international students in their school, or how they celebrate festivals, holidays, and international days, such as International Education Week!

What is a collage?

The word collage comes from the French word 'coller,' which means 'to paste,' and it is a process of pasting together different texts, visuals and objects to produce a single piece of art.

When creating this type of art, Dr. Rona Cran, the author of Collage in Twentieth Century Art, Literature and Culture, explains that "Collage is about encounters. It is about bringing ideas into conversation with one another."

Collages can be abstract, tell a story, or showcase culture. For a famous example of collage from 1919, check out Das Unbild, "The And-Picture," created by German artist Kurt Schwitters.

Tips and Tricks

- There are many ways to make a collage. Some collages are made entirely of magazine clippings and others are made from combining pictures taken by students/teachers, paint, ink, elements of school projects and/or digital images. Students are free to determine the size, combination, and ratio of materials.
- Submissions can be made with cut and pasted materials or created electronically and submitted on the required paper size.
- Make sure to pick the right paper or canvas to work on. For this contest, the collage must be 11" x 17" (28 cm x 43 cm) in dimension. At your neighbourhood office supply store, this size of paper is called Tabloid or Ledger.
- Remember to gather a lot of different materials before you start, so you have lots of options!
- Before pasting, experiment with different designs by moving the materials around and consider leaving some empty space to avoid overcrowding your collage.
- Pick the right glue for the job. In most cases, a non-toxic and washable glue stick works best for pasting pieces of paper.
- Embrace change! Lots of new ideas will emerge in the process and your collage might turn out a lot different than expected.
- Remember, your collage should visually answer the question: In my school, how do I interact with the world?

Frequently Asked Questions

What does original work mean?

Original work refers to a unique creation that has not been copied. For example, if a student sits near a field and sketches the landscape that they see, then they have produced original work. Additionally, if a student adheres to the copyright criteria outlined in this document when pasting together magazine clippings that represent how they interact with the world, then they have produced original work.

What is an example of using copyrighted material in a collage?

A student can use magazine clippings, and the magazine clippings can include text and/or visuals. However, no more than twenty magazine clippings can be used, and the student will have to meet all the criteria pertaining to copyrighted material outlined in the Rules and Regulations section of this guide.

What if a student does not want to use copyrighted materials?

Students are welcome to use content they produced themselves or content available in the public domain. For example, a student could use a doodle from their notebook in their collage, or they could use a photo of a tree that is available in the public domain through a website like Wikimedia Commons.

If copyrighted materials are allowed, then why do students need to submit a copyright license?

The copyright license applies directly to the student's collage. By signing this legal document, the student and/or the student's legal guardian gives Alberta Education permission to produce, reproduce, transmit, publish, adapt, distribute and translate the student's collage. See copyright license for more information.

Can students use content generated by Artificial Intelligence (AI)?

Yes, students can use content generated by AI. However, each piece of content generated by AI counts towards the maximum number of copyrighted materials allowed. As well, each piece of content must be documented on a source list that includes a short description of the content and the name of the AI platform.

What is a model release and when is it needed?

The model release applies to any identifiable person that the student wishes to include in their collage. In other words, if a student wants to include a photo of an identifiable person, then the student must first explain to that person how the photo will be used, ask for their consent and if given, have them read and sign the model release. By signing this legal document, the identifiable person gives Alberta Education the right to make use their photo in the collage for the promotion of products and services. See model release for more information.

If the student plans to include a photo of their group of friends, does each person in the photo have to sign a model release?

Yes, each person in the photo must sign a model release form for the photo to be used. This rule applies to any identifiable person, including, but not limited to, friends, family members, and school staff.

If a student plans to use an image of identifiable people from a magazine, will the student have to obtain model releases from all the people in the image?

No, the student does not have to obtain model releases from people depicted in magazines or other publications. However, the student must submit a source list with their collage that includes a short description of the image, the name of the magazine from which it came, as well as any other identifiable information of the material, such as the name of the photographer.
